RISK DESCRIPTION:

An infant < 6 months of age whose:

- Mother was a WIC Program participant during pregnancy OR
- Mother's medical records document that the woman was at nutritional risk during pregnancy because of detrimental or abnormal nutritional conditions detectable by biochemical or anthropometric measurements or other documented nutritionally related medical conditions

Note: Medical conditions do not include dietary risks.

ASK ABOUT:

- Infant health status and growth pattern
- Infant feeding patterns
- Primary care provider's recommendations
- Access to well child care and any barriers obtaining care

NUTRITION COUNSELING/EDUCATION TOPICS:

- Review age-appropriate infant feeding guidelines.

POSSIBLE REFERRALS:

- If the infant is not receiving well child care or keeping appointments, refer the child (if on medical assistance) to Health Tracks (<http://www.nd.gov/dhs/services/medicalserv/health-tracks/>), the local public health department, or primary care providers in the community.
- If the infant has other needs for services, refer to community programs, organizations and providers as needed.
